

Physiological Regulating Medicine in Scar Deactivation and Aesthetic Medicine

An Innovative Way to Boost Beauty, Health and Wellness of your Patients using Cutting-edge Medicines

DAY ONE: Saturday, September 18, 2010 12pm-6pm

Scar Deactivation with Dr. Jon Freckleton, DO

• What is Scar Deactivation? • Physiological Regulating Medicine Overview: The Origins of PRM, The Fundamentals of Homeopathy/Homotoxicology/PRM, The Therapeutic Triangle, The Guna Method – Therapeutic Strategy • Neural Therapy Overview: Neural Therapy Origins, The Three Layers of Musculo-Skeletal Pain, Autonomic System Damage: Causes, Symptoms and Affects • Scar Injection: Supplies, Procedure, Outcomes • Practical and GUNA Injectable Products

DAY TWO: Sunday, September 19, 2010 8:00am-3pm

Aesthetic Medicine with Dr. Donese Worden, NMD

• Mesotherapy: What is Mesotherapy?, Tools of Mesotherapy, Advantages of Bio-Mesotherapy, The "Nappage" technique, How to combine conventional (Laser, Fillers, Peeling) and unconventional therapies in Aesthetic Medicine, Home Therapy in Aesthetic Medicine • Injection Techniques: Clinical uses of Biotherapeutic Medicines in Aesthetics, Analysis of therapeutic protocols in Aesthetic Medicine: Cellulite, Local Adiposity, Wrinkles, Face and neck bio-lifting, Breast Toning, Tissue Toning, Stretch marks, Bags under the eyes, Dilation of capillaries, Detox program

CMEs/CEUs are available – Continental Breakfast and Lunch will be included – RSVP September 10, 2010

Saturday, Sept 18, 2010

12pm - 6pm

AND

Sunday, Sept 19, 2010

8am - 3pm

Hyatt Regency
San Francisco Airport
1333 Bayshore Highway
Burlingame, CA 94010
Tel 650.347.1234

For more information contact
GUNA Inc
Holly Smith, Medical Sales
Consultant

Tel. 484-223-3537
h.smith@gunainc.com

Registration fee of $99: Includes both days of seminar as well Saturday Buffet lunch, Sunday Continental breakfast and buffet lunch. Group room rates are available at $139 per night. Please contact the hotel for a sleeping room reservation.

PRESENTORS: Dr. Jon Freckleton, DO

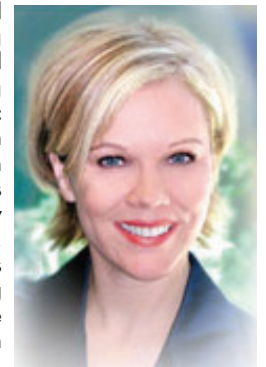

After graduating from University of Colorado, Dr. Freckleton returned to Steamboat for a year to prepare for and apply to medical school. During this time he helped coach at Winter Sports Club and raced bikes and skis. He decided to attend University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine and moved to Maine to begin Medical School. His belief in the body's ability to heal itself with the aid of hands-on manipulation led him to specialize in traditional osteopathic medicine early on during medical school. After graduating from medical school Dr. Freckleton did his residency in Family Practice and Osteopathic manipulation with two years of study of rural primary care in Craig Colorado. While working in Craig Dr. Freckleton also found time to help coach masters cross-country skiing through the Steamboat Touring Center and participated in many local races such as the Town Challenge Mountain bike series, the Steamboat Pentathlon and the Steamboat Triathlon to name a few.

Throughout his education Dr. Freckleton followed his interest in many different modalities of helping the body to heal itself. This led him to learn injection therapy such as trigger point and regenerative joint injection, which is also known as prolotherapy. He also studied medical acupuncture with Joseph Helms through UCLA. The desire to have a well rounded education led Dr. Freckleton to finish his training in Long Beach, California where he found excellent Osteopathic mentors and gained plenty of hospital experience.

Dr. Donese Worden, NMD

Dr. Donese Worden is an Arizona-based physician and global health educator. She is renowned for identifying and helping to bring unique healing modalities and therapies from abroad to the United States, putting her on the vanguard of integrated, naturopathic medicine. Dr. Worden has two medical clinics in Arizona, Worden Medical Specialties, located in Scottsdale and Mesa. For almost a decade, she has been helping clients achieve optimal health and energy using natural therapies. As a naturopathic practitioner, she is licensed in administering both pharmaceuticals and botanicals. However, her goal is to apply leading edge, customized alternative therapies that treat the root of the problem. Dr. Worden is also licensed in clinical nutrition, acupuncture, spinal manipulation, botanical medicine, counseling, and homeopathy. She is leading expert in regenerative injection therapies and bioenergetic medicine.

GUNA Inc
GUNA Tel 1 888 486 2835
(484) 223 3500

3724 Crescent Court West
Whitehall, PA 18052
info@gunainc.com
www.gunainc.com

